

It takes a village and a VISION

We can't change the course of our future by ourselves. Fortunately, we don't have to. Vienna's key opinion leaders all agree that in order to write our own story, we have to work together and make our shared vision a reality. Meet the people who are taking charge of a better tomorrow today.

2. Eno Peçi
Dancer & Choreographer, Wiener Staatsballett:

"We artists live and work in progress all the time. By platforms like time4artists and the Future Ball we approach a higher level of art and economic development while being a part of the present and the future."

4. Christoph Thun-Hohenstein
General Director at MAK - Austrian Museum of Applied Arts / Contemporary Art:

"Actively designing the future is our most important task. Through their actions, every person can be a designer of the future and have a say in what the world will be like tomorrow and the day after. We all have to make sure that artificial intelligence and other great technologies do not surpass and obliterate humans, but are being used in the sustainable interest of humanity."
